Programme Outline

The proposed MRes in Criminal Justice will provide a research pathway for those wishing to pursue a PhD after their masters degree or as part of their ESRC-recognised 1+3 research training for their PhD in Law. The MRes will combine advanced training in wider social science research approaches and methodologies, with specialist study of human rights law for those wishing to pursue a PhD. The programme satisfies the research training requirements of the ESRC 1+ element of the 1+3 components. The programme enables the School to continue to attract high quality students eligible for ESRC funding. It provides core training for those students seeking to pursue postgraduate study and ultimately an academic career in the social sciences.

The MRes will provide a subject-oriented taught postgraduate level programme with the required amounts of social science research methods (as determined by the ESRC). Relative to students undertaking the MA Law by Research, MRes Criminal Justice students will take additional, more generic social science research training (provided by the DTP).

Aims of the Programme

The aim of the programme is to provide advanced training in wider social science research approaches and methodologies, combined with specialist study of criminal justice for those wishing to proceed to a PhD. The programme provides:

advanced knowledge in the field of criminal justice.
advanced and critical understanding of criminal justice systems.
advanced training to carry out research on criminal justice issues through the provision of core research training in social science epistemologies, research design and qualitative methods, and quantitative methods and data

How Will You Learn?

This programme is taught by members of academic staff in the School of Law and the School of Politics and International Relations. The School of Law is committed to developing, maintaining and supporting excellence in teaching practice and fostering independent learning and critical thinking in our students, whilst providing appropriate levels of support to students in their learning.

The majority of teaching and learning takes place through:

- small group, participatory seminars with a member of academic staff who has research expertise in the programme's subject area. Sessions will normally be based around the discussion of pre-circulated readings, where students will have the opportunity to shape the direction and content of debate. Seminars are designed to offer students an open, democratic, flexible and supportive learning environment. There is also a substantial component of private study and reading.

Learning will be supported by:

- coherently designed and effectively delivered modules
- detailed module handbooks, providing learning outcomes and guided reading for each module, identifying the structure and pathway of each module.
- the provision of key materials in libraries or through electronic resources
- individual feedback on written work
- appropriate assessment exercises within each module
- use of electronic teaching materials including Powerpoint, QMPlus and online reading lists
- encouraging active participation by students in small group discussions
- research methods training
- appropriate use of AV teaching technologies

Students have access to a wide range of learning resources within the College. These include: the College Library, the University of London Library at Senate House and the first rate resources of other libraries with London collections (e.g. the British Library); a range of IT resources including networked PCs (with full internet and email privileges), and electronic learning resources (e.g. electronic academic journals).

How Do We Listen and Act on Your Feedback?

The Student Voice Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between schools/institutes and its students. The committee consists of student representatives from each year in the school/institute together with appropriate representation from staff within the school/institute. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Student Voice Committees meet regularly throughout the year.

Each school/institute operates an Education Committee, or equivalent, which advises the School/Institute Director of Education on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at school level including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies and reviewing all proposals for module and programme approval and amendment before submission to Taught Programmes Board and the Directorate of Governance and Legal Services (DGLS). Student views are incorporated in the committee's work in a number of ways, such as through student membership, or consideration of student surveys.

All schools/institutes operates Programme Reviews of their taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. The Programme Review is a continuous process of reflection and action planning which is owned by those responsible for programme delivery.

Programme Title: MRes Criminal Justice

Students' views are considered in this process through analysis of the PTES and Module Experience surveys.

Academic Support

Students receive academic support via the programme director, module conveners, and attendance at research related events in both Schools.

Programme-specific Rules and Facts

N/A

Specific Support for Disabled Students

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Examination Access Arrangements
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one study skills tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
- Access to specialist mentoring support for students with mental health issues and Autistic Spectrum Disorders.

Links With Employers, Placement Opportunities and Transferable Skills

The programme provides a deep understanding of criminal justice as well as developing a range of advanced analytical and research skills. The knowledge and experience will have transferable value in the labour market. Furthermore, the MRes in Criminal Justice provides a research pathway for those wishing to pursue a PhD or as part of their ESRC recognised 1+3 research training for their PhD in law and is therefore a stepping stone to an academic career in law.

In terms of transferable knowledge and skills, an MRes Criminal Justice graduate will:

have knowledge of human rights law and how it applies in real-world situations have a range of advanced level research skills be a confident oral and written academic communicator be a confident independent learner, thinker and worker

be able to work in a group situation, showing empathy and sensitivity for the views of others, but with the ability to interact confidently and persuasively
